

The 80th Legislative Session

On February 4, the 80th session of the Nevada Legislature began under our newly elected Governor, Steve Sisolak. I'd like to offer my congratulations, hopes and best wishes to all our elected state leaders. I also applaud the record number of women elected to political office in Nevada, making it the first state in the U.S. where the majority of state lawmakers are women.

The issues Gov. Sisolak brought up in his State of the State address are important to all of us. Like our governor, our legislators and all of you, I want to continue our economic recovery, maintain a great quality of life for all Nevadans, support our schools, and ensure our shared safety and security.

I wish the new governor and our legislators all the best, knowing they want the same things we all do. Working together, we can create a great future for Nevada.

Best Regards,
